The Attribution Problem

June 28, 2023

Suspicion, Cheating and Bans: A.I. Hits America's Schools

Teachers and students on how ChatGPT is changing education.

The Stanford Daily

ws • Science & Technology

cores of Stanford students used hatGPT on final exams, survey suggests

when it Happens

Professors have a summer assignment: Prevent ChatGPT chaos in the fall

AI chatbots have triggered a panic among educators, who are flooding listservs, webinars and professional conferences to figure out how to deal with the technology
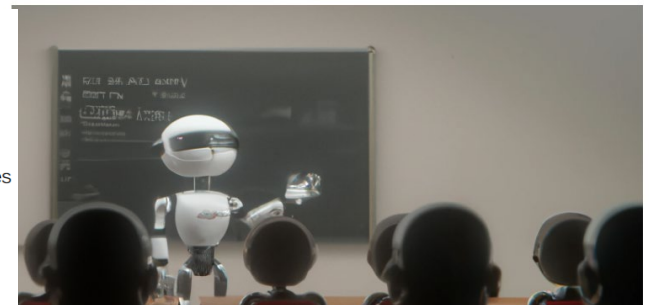

By Pranshu Verma

August 13, 2023 at 7:00 a.m. EDT

Insight: Almost any nefarious near-term use of Large Language Models that you can think of (cheating, propaganda, fraud, spam…) involves concealing the LLM's involvement. If only we could make that harder!

Another reason to care about attribution

As the Internet gets filled with LLM-generated text, we'll often need to prevent that text from getting fed back in as training data… which requires recognizing it